TO THE ELEVENTH WARD CLUB

He Gives Some Very Cogent Reasons Why the American Workmen Should Vote the Republican Ticket.

After the cauque to nominate school lain of the Eleventh Ward Republican glub called the club to order. As it was growing late, Dorr Skeels moved Williams, all of Allegan. Rev. W. P. that the regular order of business be Law was also accompanied by his wife suspensed. The charman then in- Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bassett boardtroduced M. L. Dunham, who was the ed the 4.27 train this morning to take a speaker of the evening, and the assemby had the pleasure of listening to a go and return with themred hot republican speech, which was interrupted frequently by applause. Among other things Mr. Dumham said: "I believe that the ward clubs ought to exist in each and every ward and be extensive repairs with emarged faciliwell attended by republicans in that want. Whether republican or demoand discuss, and these meetings in the club rooms strengthen our loyalty and faith. I believe a man should be able to give his reasons for being a republican. I have some for being a republican. I have always been a republican and like most of you here I have given the subject much thought.

Promd of the Part, "The democrats say that the republicans always talk of the past of their party. I singled to talk of the past of the republican party. I am proud of belonging to a party that was born of necessity, born and the bullets of the south and taken to the baptismal forts of the bravest one ever belonging to any party. I am gold to belong to a party that has men in it, who have been sent in it, who have been sent in it. The party tender vines look siev. that has men in it who have brains enough to provide sums necessary for our vast indebtedhess and to have provided laws that have met every emer-"A man named Mills from Texas attempted to make a reputation for himself and his party, but we had a man mained McKinly down in Onio who has provided a law for the American people." Then Mr. Dunham eloquently presented arguments in favor of a pro-tective tariff using steel and iron as his snample. Mr. Dunham was given a vote of thanks by the club and the meeting adjourned. After the adjournment O. Sherpnorn, James M. Wilcox, O. W. Gunn and D. E. Lozier put their names on the roll of the club.

Political Points. Meetings will be held in the first and with wards Wednesday night to organize republican clubs. The places will be announced later.

The republican senatorial convention for the seventeenth senatorial district will be held October 4 at 1:30 p. m. in the hall at the corner of Hall street and Madison avenue.

ARID REGIONS OF THE WEST. Much Money Vainly Spent in Looking for Water-Some Erroneous Bellefs.

Underground water is too abundant in the cast to attract much attention, but in the arid regions of the western states and Mexico it becomes a matter of the utmost importance. Areas exist there as large as New England-for example, the Liano Estacado-without a stream or permanent pond upon their surface, while other areas, aggregating one-tenth of this whole country, have not a stream with the volume of the Connecticut, and are entirely lacking in laterals and springs. Great railway lines, including the Southern Pacific. haul water hundreds of miles for their engines and have spent millions in the search for underground water, and the government has spent large sums in similar experiments. Most of these efforts have been the result of exaggerated expectations whose penfulfillment have resulted in the apathy of the people. It was soon learned, according to the Engineering Magazine, that the greatest possible use of surface water, aided by the best systems of storage, could not water a hundredth part of the western area, and popular attention turned to the underground supply. Infloods could not be obtained every-

The laws of distribution and utilization of underground waters are as simple as those controlling surface distri-bution, but the popular failacies concerning them are appalling-for in-stance, the erroneous idea that all undenground waters flow in streams "like the circulatory system of the human ody," supplying every well and spring. It is a curious thing to see the "water witch" pind ower a farm with his forked atick trying to locate "the current." In the vast area letween the Bocky mountains and the Mississippl the bellef prevails that all the wells are supplied by the water prodpitated upon the negotalita which disappears beneath the surface to rice again a thousand miles away along the coastal plain, while beneath the vast intervening region is an inexhaustible store of water waiting for man's invention to bring it to the warface.

The attitude of the Temale endeavoring to protect be little one from impending death is quite idyllis, while the rage and fear of puterfamilias, who must have stood nearly four feet high, are equally manifest. The tails of all of them spring from an unusual position, high up in the back They appear to have been mammilled by some natural process, and there is attill some hair adhering to the skull. How a Little Miss Turned Failure Into a

Presence of mind has turned defeat into victory for generals on the battlefield, for statesmen in the senate chamber and for lawyers in the courtroom. It is a rare gift, but a very young wom an who lives in the little town of Hawthorne, in the pine woods of Florida. possesses it to an unusual degree, says an exchange. The Sunday school to which she belongs recently gave a Sunday-school concert, and, though she is hardly five years old, she showed such willingness to contribute to the success of the occasion that she was intrusted by the teacher with the recitation of a

She applied herself to her task, and at the preliminary rehearsal acquitted herself to the delight of her teacher and the envy of her classmates.

The Sunday afternoon came at last, The church was crowded and the exercises began. The little girl was in a flutter. At last the long-waited moment arrived and the superintendent comounced her name. She toddled bravely up the aisle and with the help of his hand mounted the steps and stood on the platform facing the people.
"Oh, what a lot of folks all looking at me!" she thought. In fact, like many an older person in a similar situation, that was all she could think of. The verse which she knew so well that she had been saying it in her sleep she could not think of at

But she was not the child to give way to defeat without a struggle. If she couldn't think of that verse, she could of another, and so, while the congregation was hushed to eatch the first syllable from her faltering lips, she piped up in a shrill treble:

Needles and pins, When you get married the trouble begins." In one respect, at least, her recitation was the success of the afternoon.

GOLD FROM THE SEA.

One of the most astonishing of all the promises of electricity is now being disussed by the scientific journals. It is that of extracting gold from the sea. It has long been known to scientists that every ten of sea water contains helf a grain of gold and a grain and a half of liver, but the Boston Globe says science has always found it impossible to levise any practicable method of gaining possession of these precious bits of netal. But now comes electricity with It is proposed to stretch a long series of fron plates under the weter and by running electric currents through these plates to precipitate the gold upon

It is estimated that at the rate of half a grain of gold and a grain and a half of silver to each ton of sea water the entire seas and oceans of the world contain 31,595 billion tons of gold and 64,-785 billion tons of silver. Now if these metals can be liberated by electricity and precipitated what a reve stion it would make in the world's production. What a revolution all this might make in the world's currency basis does not concern science. Nevertheless, this new application of electricity is decidedly interesting as showing how discoveries in science may operate at any time to change the whole face of things in social and economic affairs.
